THE late Gen. Sterling Price.
The report which gained currency in the city, yesterday, of the death of Gen. Sterling Price was but the confirmation of the fears of his friends for several days past. He had been suffering from a renewed attack of a disease contracted by him in Mexico, and his symptoms were alternately alarming and hopeful, until shortly after two o'clock yesterday morning when calmly and without pain, he expired.
The career of Gen. Price has been so eventful and distinguished that it will perhaps be expected of the journalist to accompany the notice of his death with a sketch of his life and history so far as they belong to the chronicles of the times. Though our materials for this duty are not so full as we might wish, we nevertheless undertake it, and give to our readers the principal data within our reach, gathered from various sources.
Sterling Price was, we believe, a native (born about the year 1810) of Prince Edward's county, Virginia, but early moved to Missouri; where he gradually obtained prominence as a lawyer and politician. His first appearance in a public character was in 1845, when he was elected a member of the House of Representatives in Congress from the Third District of Missouri, serving during the first two years of President Polk's administration. The Mexican war breaking out, he was authorized by President Polk to raise a regiment of cavalry for service in Mexico, was mustered in August 12, 1846, and early in the war marched to Santa Fe with one of the best volunteer cavalry regiments raised during the war. It was known as the 2d Missouri mounted volunteers. Col. Price soon distinguished himself by the prompt manner in which he suppressed the insurrection of the New Mexicans and Pucbla Indians in his district of Gen. Kearney's department of New Mexico. The insurrection began on January 14, 1847, with the murder of Gov. Charles Bent, at San Fernando de Taos. The news of this and other outrages reached Santa Fe on January 20, and Col. Price, with 50 men and four twelve-pounder guns, marched to punish the organized insurgents. He came up with their main force numbering fifteen hundred, on January 24, near the small village of Canada. Price at once opened upon them and their village, and after a brief struggle the rebels were dispersed with a loss of thirty-six killed and a large number wounded. Price's loss was only two killed and six wounded. The pursuit was continued up the valley of the Rio del Norte, and on January 29, at La Jara, another serious blow was inflicted upon the insurgents by Price, adding largely to the number of killed and wounded, and to the demoralization of the enemy. On the 31st of February Price had reached San Fernando de Taos, the scene of Gov. Bent's murder. He found the insurgents in possession, strongly fortified, and waiting an attack. Price assaulted the position on the 4th, and succeeded during the night in occupying some abandoned houses commanding the rebel position. The enemy sued for terms next day. Price demanded and received the persons of the chief insurgents, and hung them a few days subsequently. This brief campaign, which would today be considered so insignificant as to hardly deserve recital, made Price a Brigadier General of Volunteers, his commission dating July 20th, 1847. His second battle in Mexico is known as that of Santa Cruz de Rosales, and was properly a siege. The principal battle of the siege was fought March 16th, 1848, against a very superior force of Mexicans under Don Angel Freas, Governor of Chihuahua, and resulted in the capture of the place and the entire garrison. He was wounded in an engagement at Canada, New Mexico, January 24th, 1847.
After the conclusion of the Mexican war, Gen. Price was elected Governor of Missouri, and served four years in that capacity, from 1853 to 1857, with great credit to himself and to the State. He was afterward Bank Commissioner. During the excitement in the early part of the year 1861, Gen. Price was a staunch, earnest and devoted Union man, using the whole of his powerful influence in opposition to the secession of the State from the Union. He was elected a delegate from the Chariton District (where he lived) to the Constitutional Convention, and such was the pronounced character of his Unionism that he was elected President of that body by a vote of 75 to 15. This Convention, after refusing by a most decided and almost unanimous vote to adopt resolutions setting forth that there was adequate cause for the

FOR SALE.

THE Farm on which I now reside is for sale. It is situated four miles south of Cynthiana, half a mile from Fair's Station, on the K. C. R. R., at which point there is a post office, express office, depot, saw mill and two excellent grist mills that manufacture the best quality of flour and meal. It is within 3 hours ride of Cincinnati and 1 1/2 of Lexington. It contains about 175 acres, one hundred acres well timbered. The remainder cleared and in the highest state of cultivation. The fencing all in good order. The improvements consist of a comfortable dwelling, partly frame and partly log, weatherboarded and plastered and painted, containing six rooms, cook-house and all necessary out buildings, including two large stables, (each with 10 or 12 stalls), enough to hold 6 and feed 75 miles in a time which can be done without going out of doors, as there is a large wide feed room extending the whole length of the stables, in which there is a cutting box run by horse power, with capacity and strength enough to cut a large quantity of provender in a short time. There is also a young orchard of select fruit of various kinds now bearing. The farm is supplied with abundance of pure water for all purposes, as there is upon it a number of never failing springs (some of them near the dwelling) and south Licking which runs along one side of it. Any one wishing to purchase such a farm, would do well to call and examine for themselves, as the place will be sold for a reasonable price, the payments made easy and if desired a part of the money can be run a considerable length of time at moderate interest.

I also desire to sell 400 acres of land which lies in Lewis county, Missouri. Said land is situated about 12 miles from Palmyra on the road leading from there to Monmouth, and about 16 miles from the Mississippi river, about one half of it timbered land, the timber excellent, the balance prairie of good quality, a little rolling and dry, is in a good neighborhood, and is surrounded by old settlers and finely improved farms. There is a large handsome brick church and school house in sight of the land. Also, a small village and post office near by. Price reasonable, payments easy and made to suit the ability and convenience of purchasers. For further particulars call on

This Convention, after refusing by a most decided and almost unanimous vote to adopt resolutions setting forth that there was adequate cause for the

secession of Missouri from the Union,

adjourned on the 21st day of March, 1861, to the third Monday of the following December. Gen. Price, with a view doubtless to be instrumental in the preservation of peace, was induced to accept the position of Major General of the militia, under a new military bill passed by the Legislature. Matters were going on in this State without special excitement until the 10th of May, when the ill-adviced, unfortunate, and we had almost said criminal collision at Camp Jackson occurred, when a small body of State militia, collected in a peaceful encampment under the flag of the Union, and in accordance with the laws of the State, was surrounded by a large force under Capt. Lyon, captured and imprisoned. This act, which had the sanction of the Federal authorities, did more, perhaps, than anything in the whole history of our civil troubles to fan the flames of rebellion in Missouri, and added thousands to what had before then been a most unpopular cause in this State. Soon after the capture of Camp Jackson, General Price made an agreement with General Harney, then in command here, by which the former guaranteed to keep the peace. General Harney, however was shortly afterward superseded by Capt. Lyon, who had been promoted Brigadier General.

On the 11th of June, 1861, a conference was held at the Planter's House in this city, between Governor Jackson and Gen. Price, on the one hand, and Gen. Lyon and others on the other, with the ostensible view to the preservation of the peace. Its result was unsatisfactory to the State authorities, who at once returned to Jefferson City and made preparations to resist what were called the encroachments of the national power. Gathering many of the ardent of the Government and collecting as many men, horses, equipments etc., as possible, Gov. Jackson, accompanied by Gen. Price, fled the capital, the latter issuing a proclamation calling upon the men of Missouri to fly to the standard of the State. Gen. Lyon pursued with his troops, and overtook the State militia at Booneville, where the first battle of the war occurred. Gen. Price was not present in person, we believe, he having proceeded to the neighborhood of Fayette, and only joining his forces after the defeat. He was pursued by Sigel, whom he encountered at Carthage, and, after an engagement of two hours, succeeded in opening his obstructed route and continuing his flight toward the southern counties of the State. Here he collected a large force, which was soon after so strengthened by Gen. Ben. McCollough's forces that Gen. Price was enabled to offer Lyon battle at Springfield, and succeeded in defeating him. He advanced further north into Missouri, gaining strength daily, and on Sept. 16th began the siege of Lexington by a brisk bombardment of that city. This place and its garrison of 3,500 men were, after three days' fighting, captured on September 20th. This was the last triumph of General Price's Missouri campaign of 1861, as soon after he was forced to retreat by Gen. Fremont, and was subsequently driven out of the State by Curtis and Halleck.

During this time Price was not regularly in the Confederate service. On his expulsion from Missouri he was entered on the list as Major General and placed in command of a division of troops. This division with that of Van Dorn, was transferred in April, 1862, from Arkansas to Corinth, Miss., and participated, May 9, 1862, in the battle of Farmington. He retreated with the rest of Beauregard's forces from Corinth, and remained at Tupelo, Miss., until the following September, when his division and that of Van Dorn were moved to Iuka. Here a portion of General Grant's forces, under Rosecrans, attacked and defeated them after a hard fight. The Southern loss left on the field being one thousand four hundred and thirty-three men. October 4, 1862; Price and Van Dorn attacked Rosecrans in Corinth and met with a single repulse. He labored under this trouble for many months, being idle for the greater part of 1863. February 6th 1864, he again assumed command of the Department of Arkansas, relieving General Holmes. In the following month (April 19) he attacked and captured a foraging train of two hundred wagons belonging to General Steel's command, near Camden Ark.

In August, Price was relieved by Magruder of the command of the District of Arkansas, and began his last and most memorable invasion of Missouri. The incidents of this disastrous raid are yet fresh in the ## minds of the people, and need no

chronological record. The invasion was ended by a single blow dealt Price at Newtonia, by Blunt and Sanborn, and he was glad to retreat. Marma Duke and Dabell were captured, and the rebel army badly dispersed. Price returned to Arkansas, where he collected the remnants of his corps together, but there was nothing afterwards at all brilliant in his career, and the above, we believe, includes the main features of his military history. That he was a general of great ability no one can doubt, yet it does not appear that he was properly appreciated at Richmond, owing, perhaps, to Jefferson Davis' avowed distrust of officers who could not boast of a military education.

There was no commander in the South so popular with his troops and the people as he was. There was always something in his character which attracted to him the affection of those by whom he was surrounded. In person he was dignified and soldierly. His face was lighted up with benevolence and kindness, for, with all the mistakes of his life, he had a good, warm, impulsive, generous heart. Disapproving of so much of his conduct—we have reference here only to his course during the war—it is with unalloyed sorrow we record the death of one who possessed so many good and noble qualities, and earnestly do we join with his personal friends in paying tribute to his memory.

Strange Episode.—A Sister of Harper Arrested by the Military Authorities at Gallatin.—While the fair was in progress at Gallatin yesterday a singular and rather unpleasant interruption to the general good feeling occurred. The circumstances, as far as we could ascertain them by careful inquiry, were as follows:

A few nights since, two horses were stolen from Lieut. Col. Leib, commanding the post at Gallatin. He charged that Harper was the guilty party, on the strength of the statement made by him to those who assumed to be acquainted with the guerrilla's movements. Aware of the fact that Harper was not to be caught, he sent to his father's house a squad of men who brought away two horses; one of these horses was claimed to be the property of Harper's brother, who, in company with his sister, went to the fair yesterday for the purpose of seeing Leib, and securing the restoration of the animal. During the afternoon she found Leib and made a demand for the return of the horse, to which he refused to accede. She then remarked that these were not war times; that the taking of the horse under the circumstances above detailed was nothing less than stealing. He replied with some asperity, and threatened her with arrest. As to the nature of her reply there are conflicting rumors. The termination, however, of the controversy was that he complained to one of the judges that he had been insulted. It was rumored from the stand that the feelings of a guest had been outraged, and that the offender would be put out of the grounds in case of a repetition. She left the grounds, and was arrested by order of Leib as soon as she passed out of the gate, and taken to Gallatin. On the way thither, she attempted to get away, when a pistol was presented at her head with the threat that she would be shot if she did not keep quiet.

In accordance with the advice of Capt. Bennett, her counsel, she intends commencing a suit against Leib, for false imprisonment.—Nash. Banner.

The long-continued drouth in Southern Indiana has compelled the farmers to commence feeding their stock. The pastures are completely dried up, and many farmers have to drive their stock three or four miles to water.—Ky. Yeoman

"Why do you drive such a pitiful-looking carcass as that? Why don't you put a heavier coat of flesh on him?" said a traveler to an Irish car driver. "A heavier load of flesh? By the powers, the poor creature can hardly carry what little there is on him now."

A. J. MOREY, Editor.

Many gentlemen have been suggested by the Press for Governor of Kentucky, all of them with one exception have been acceptable to us, and while we are not particular who is Governor so that he is qualified and his Democracy sound, we hope our readers will excuse us for giving them the name of ex-Gov. Charles S. Morehead, as our choice for that honorable and responsible position. The people of Kentucky know this man and they are and have been pleased with him and his principles. He has followed but one path for years, and that has been a constitutional Democratic path; and he has never been the man to abandon it because obstructions lay in the way. The mutterings of persecution and its actual enforcement against him, has not changed his principles, and never will. He stands firm, like the sturdy oak, whose branches have withstood the pressure of an hundred storms. His passage through the fiery ordeal has made him a greater and a better man.

We do not know that Gov. Morehead would accept the position of standard-bearer for the Democracy of Kentucky, but believing that we needed one of his character and standing, we have taken the liberty to nominate him.

We have learned from our exchanges that a change has been made in the office of Tobacco Inspector for this District. Thos. Reed, of Covington, has been removed and a Mr. Clark appointed in his place. Both were radicals, but it seems that Clark belonged to the clique, and the clique was able to run Reed out. Clark is a psalm-singing, prayer-making radical, and the clique is of the same kind. The head of this clique, we are informed, is M M Benton, the man who was ousted from his seat in Senate of the State, and who had to leave the city of Covington, in 1861, to celebrate the triumphs of the rebels at Bull Run, over the Yankees. He is now a red, red-mouthed radical; one of the "God and Morality" party of this State, and he was opposed to Reed, because Tom could not sing psalms and pray. Reed is the whitest republican we ever knew, and was as fair and honest as rads could be, and yet we could trust him because he was not a member of a radical church, and that was the cause of his being relieved. We advise Reed to learn to pray like a radical with a long, hypocritical face to the treator, and prey on the people in a regular hog-order fashion, for to be out of the radical fashions is to be as good as a rebel. We are slightly of opinion that this "hog-order, God and morality" clique of Benton's wanted Reed to do more dirty work than he had been used to performing and hence he is dismissed. Reed is entitled to some regard because he is not one of Benton's pimps; because he don't belong to that clique. There is no salvation for a man who is of the Bentonites, but there is a prospect and a hope for a radical who has never joined a clique. This move of radical against radical, is a good thing. The Democracy will reap a benefit in the muck, and Reed will find out that the hypocritical pretensions of his friends will be to devote him to the mud-sill portion of his party. To be kicked out of office by ones own friends, for no cause, is certainly an insult that is not easily brooked, and especially by such a clique as that headed by M M Benton. Hal hal!

Sir Frederick Bruce, says the New York Herald, never married, preferring, probably, the freedom and pleasures of bachelorhood to the domestic happiness of a married life. He was a perfect specimen of an Englishman, all of his manners and habits and the routine of his life being essentially British. He lived in excellent style in Washington, was very hospitable to his acquaintances and friends, whom he frequently entertained at his well spread table, and was noted for that love of horses, which has almost become a passion with Englishmen. To the public in general the deceased wore that stiff and formal appearance which characterizes the class of his countrymen to which he belonged, but in private life he is said to have been very social, conversational and entertaining. He always expressed great admiration and friendship for the United States, and it was principally the knowledge of this feeling which occasioned his appointment as Minister to Washington. The only one of our institutions he objected to was the railroad regulation which prohibited a gentleman entering certain cars unless accompanied by a lady. As the deceased Minister usually desired to ride in other cars than those filled with smokers and tobacco chewers, whenever he traveled he was under the judicious necessity of taking his cook with him, as a means of obtaining admittance to the ladies' car.

Some weeks ago Sir Frederick accompanied Mr. Seward and other gentlemen to Auburn, where they passed several days in fishing and other pleasures. At that time he was apparently in good health, and the disease which carried him off must have attacked him in a very sudden and unexpected manner.

We are pleased to notice that our friend of the "Owensboro Monitor" has come out very firm for the principles of State rights and the Kentucky and Virginia resolutions. The editor makes some very pointed strikes at a few of the "so-called. He says that

We are surprised to see that some of our "so-called" Democratic contemporaries of this State declare that the war has disposed and settled the doctrine of State rights and the Kentucky and Virginia resolutions and other Democratic tenets and truths. Their reasoning is as illogical as inconclusive. According to their logic, because the infidel Turk have well nigh annihilated the Christian creeds, we are to conclude and concede that the system of christianity is a failure. The teachings of these resolutions—the reserved and admitted rights of the States—like truth itself, though sometimes temporarily crushed, will rise again, for like it they are immutable. If it were possible for them to be destroyed, it will be when all constitutional liberty will have fled the land. The country suffered a similar political convulsion, in some respects, under the influence of Alexander Hamilton, the consolidationist, but the reason of the people after a time resumed its sway, and federalism was consigned to that oblivion and disgrace that awaits its wicked imitation of the present day.

Colonel N. P. Sawyer, of the Pittsburg Republic, is said to be the grand chief of the new secret council or order of national Union. Joinson men founded at Washington. There are several of these organizations throughout the United States. In Pittsburg, St. Louis, Louisville, Crestline and other places, and all of them combined number some eight thousand members. Among those present last night were Col T B Florence, Dr Allen, Capt Rudger, Wm Boyd, Maj Flinn, and a few other prominent parties. A sentinel was placed at the door and none were admitted save those who were desirous of becoming members of the order.—Ex.

Editorial Courtesy.—We are sorry to see newspaper editors depart from the true dignity of their calling and descend to personalities. A short time since the editor of the Cincinnati News censured the Louisville Courier in a bold outspoken article for the course of the Courier respecting negro testimony, and also wrote an article bearing very severely upon Governor Stevenson. While we did not and cannot indorse in full either of these articles and certainly object to the manner of his handling of Gov. Stevenson, we do not think our friend of the Courier should have descended to such personal abuse of the editor of the News, for we can find nothing in the article in question that could justify a personal attack. We feel that this suggestion can come from us without any offense being taken by the Courier, since the News was the only paper in the State that in an editorial way opposed the starting of the Bourbon Democrat. We only mention the above as a sun-deck of justice to a brother confederate soldier, who publishes a paper in one of the grandest old counties of the State, and that paper is the recognized Democratic county organ. ## Ohio Democratic.

GEN. CAREY ELECTED.

Negro Suffrage Defeated in Ohio

Philadelphia Cone Democratic.

WHITE PEOPLE TRIUMPHANT.

Philadelphia, Oct. 8, 1868. The city gives over 3,000 Democratic majority, a gain of 9,000.

Pittsburg, Oct. 8, 1867. Sixteen wards and districts show a loss of 76 from the Geary vote. All the heavy Democratic districts in this county are good for at least 5,000.

Harrisburg has gone Democratic.

The Cincinnati Enquirer speaking of the election in that city says that

After one of the most remarkable elections ever seen in Hamilton county, Gen. Carey, the Independent Workingmen's candidate has been chosen to Congress, in the Second District, by a triumphant majority. Every effort was made by the Ring to sow discord between the different wings of the opposition, but all to no purpose. The Gazette and Commercial, even united, are not that potent power in Hamilton county which they supposed. They may nominate candidates but they cannot elect. A brighter day is dawning in this country, General Carey goes to Washington the champion of the people, on the great question of having one currency for all and equal and uniform taxation upon all, and he is pledged to resist any attempt upon the part of Congress to force negro suffrage upon the States against their consent.

The Enquirer says that they do not despair of the election of Gov. Thurman, but the contest is doubtful. The vote on negro suffrage has been decided in that State. The white people have decided that negroes in Ohio shall not vote.

All hail Ohio. Three cheers for Democracy of that State.

INDIANAPOLIS, October 8.—The election in this State to-day was for county officers only. A few scattering returns from different parts of the State show Democratic gains.

It is believed that Ohio, Pennsylvania and Indiana has gone Democratic. The people in Cincinnati are said to be wild with excitement over this Democratic victory.

Masonry wears upon its forehead the gathered sears and wrinkles of a thousand years, and yet it is as vigorous to-day as resolute of moral purpose, as if it bore upon its forehead the glittering dew of youth. We offer hearty prayers for the prosperity of all institutions which aim to unite men in the bonds of amity and friendship. The world is wide enough and the demand is great enough to employ the energies of all; but it must be confessed that Masonry heads the column of that grand army which follows the church of Christ, up and down and to and fro in the earth, conquering peace and fraternity among men. Let us see to it that it never yields its glory to another.—Ex.

To the Parents of the Deaf Mute Children of Kentucky.—You will see by an advertisement inserted in the principal papers of the State, that the next session of this institution commences October 1st, and that the institution is open to all deaf mutes of the State between the ages of ten and thirty years; parents who are able being required to furnish clothing and pay contingent expenses—i. not able, clothing and all contingent expenses being borne by the institution. The special object of this address is to urge parents to send their children to us at an early age—between the 10th and 15th year. We receive pupils under thirty years of age, and sometimes persons between twenty and thirty make considerable improvement, and are always benefitted, morally and intellectually, more or less. But mutes under fifteen years will learn twice as much in a given time, as those over twenty. Having spent over forty years in the instruction of deaf mute children of Kentucky, and having in every way in my power endeavored to collect all the children of this unfortunate class into the institution with very great, but far from total success, I once more appeal to you in behalf of your unfortunate children. The State has made for them ample provision; and it is your fault if they go uneducated. Everything has been provided for their education, comfort and welfare that could be desired, in health and in sickness, both for girls and boys. They are under careful and constant supervision. Former pupils are to be found in almost every county, and from them and their parents you can learn everything you desire to know in relation to the institution. We had before our late unhappy war 93 pupils. They were reduced down during the war to 52. We had last session 89; we ought to have many more. There is one deaf mute to every fifteen hundred of our population. The names of the mutes of each county may be found in the returns of the assessors in the county clerk's office, if the books of several past years are examined. The coming of many deaf mute children to the institution depends upon the active interference of benevolent and intelligent neighbors. The aid of all such is invoked in their behalf in every county in the State;

THE TRUTH ABOUT DYSPEPSIA.

Whoever says that dyspepsia is incurable, tells a—that is to say, makes an egregious mistake. More than ten thousand aggravated cases have been cured by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, while the number that have been prevented from coming to a head, by these means, is incalculable. In this season of the year, when the appetite is sometimes too vigorous for the comfort and safety of the stomach, indigestion is most prevalent and most distressing. Is the appetite to be balked to accommodate the digestive organs? Not so! for then the frame would lack its due proportion of nutriment. The thing to be done is to strengthen the stomach, tone the liver, and put the bowels in perfect order. Nothing will do this so effectually, so rapidly, so quietly, so pleasantly, as Hostetter's Bitters. This potent preparation cleans and balances the system, and clothes it, as it were, with defensive armor. Chronic dyspepsia, liver complaint, and fever and ague are never known to attack those who are wise enough to invoke the aid of this great preventive. Oct 3-2m

Speaking of Fairs, we notice that a proposition is discussed in the Observer & Reporter of a recent date, to the effect that several counties shall unite and make one large Association. For instance, that Harrison, Bourbon and Clark should have but one Association, and that they should meet at Paris; and that other counties above should unite and make Lexington their place of meeting. With due respect to our friend, Breckenridge, he must permit us to say that the Harrison county Agricultural and Mechanical Association is the second oldest one in Kentucky; that it is independent and out of debt, with money to sell; that the Association is possessed of some forty or fifty acres of ground a large and commodious Amphitheatre, a splendid Floral Hall and a beautiful cottage, the value of which is estimated to be worth some fifty or sixty thousand dollars. The people of Bourbon have an Amphitheatre and grounds and are as independent as the Harrison Association, and would not like to unite on the plan suggested, and we know that the people of Harrison would not. The editor of the "Western Citizen" says:

The proposition may do very well for Lexington, which has no amphitheatre, but we have no idea the adjoining counties will listen for a moment to the suggestion. Just now there is certainly no necessity for the discontinuance of any of the Fairs; when the necessity arises, it will be time enough to discuss the subject more fully.

Jno. T. Hogg, of this place, has sold his residence on Walnut street, to Jno. McClintock, Esq.

Absconded.—Dr. J. H. Jurey, of the firm of Jurey & Burgess, wholesale and retail druggists of Covington Ky., disappeared from his place of business about 1 o'clock on Monday the 10th inst., and has not yet returned. Since his departure it has been ascertained that he is a forger, having signed the name of Edward Burgess, of Scott county, to bills of exchange; one for $3,000 and one for $1,200; and obtained the proceeds thereof. He has also, it is reported, swindled his partner, Joseph Burgess, of Scott county, out of 10,000 or $13,000. Dr. Jurey has, during his residence of two and a half years in Covington, enjoyed the reputation of being a man of irreproachable character.

Go to J. H. Shawhan's if you want any clothing, where you will find the largest and best assortment of clothing ever brought to this city.

On Sunday after the Fair at Lexington, a fellow from Illinois, calling himself Lagow, insulted a lady at the Southern Hotel, Worley & Barclay, proprietors, but the father of the lady having considerable self-respect, and having a strong attachment for his daughter as he should have, procured a good hickory stick and laid it over the head of Mr. Lagow very decently. The cowardly creature asked for protection but was treated by the proprietors as he deserved. He had failed to show mercy to others, and why should any be shown him. Ladies will be protected at the Southern Hotel.

You will find the largest and best assortment of cloths, cassimers and vestings, at J. H. Shawhan's.

MARRIED.
